

APPENDIX D
INTERAGENCY TASK FORCE ON DUAL CREDIT
Examples of Other State Policy Frameworks

State	Cost	Legislation	Scope
Florida	Students do not pay-state pays any costs	A law enacted in 1973 provides options to high school students such as dual enrollment, vocational dual enrollment, early admission, the Advanced Placement Program, credit by examination and the International Baccalaureate Program. Legislation mandates that all 28 community colleges and certain four-year institutions offer dual enrollment opportunities.	30,000 high school students enrolled in 2,000 different dual enrollment courses.
Minnesota	Students do not pay-paid for by Minnesota Department of Education.	Statute makes dual enrollment options mandatory.	First dual enrollment program in the United States. Guidelines for participation specify that students may not take more than the equivalent of two years of coursework through the program and schools may not offer students developmental or remedial coursework.
New York	Students do not pay-costs paid by a partnership of City University of New York and New York Department of Education.	No legislation-"College Now" is a high school-college partnership	Different levels of opportunity, includes opportunity to earn a high school diploma and associate's degree simultaneously. Emphasis on underserved student populations. Of the 14,000 enrolled in the program, 22.2% were African American, 18.8% were Latino and 20% were Asian.
Utah	Students do not pay-costs paid by a partnership of state, school districts, and postsecondary institution.	Legislature created the New Century Scholarship Program which allows students to complete the requirements for an Associate of Arts or Science degree while they are enrolled in high school	Dual enrollment is available at all high schools and Utah has six Early College High Schools.
Washington	Students do not pay-colleges reimbursed by districts	Legislature created the Running Start Program that allows students in the 11 th and 12 th grades to take college level courses at any of Washington's community and technical colleges as well as Washington State, Eastern Washington and Western Washington universities.	15,610 students participated in 2004